MUSIC CARRIES GREETINGS AS AGENTS ARRIVE

With Band Playing Lively Tunes, Welcoming Party on Hand to Distribute Box Lunch and Refreshments and Dock Lined With Automobiles to Show Them Sights on a Sunny September Day, 1,000 Visiting Ticket Agents Get Good Impression of Victoria

Steaming into Victoria on the President Pierce of the American Mail Line, to the accompaniment of stirring welcoming music played by the 16th Canadian Scottish Band and greeted on landing by Mayor J. C. Pendray, representative of the City Council and every transportation man in the city who could break away from duty, one thousand delegates of the American Association of Railroad Ticket Agents were left with no doubts of the warmth of their welcome here to-day.

The liner President Pierce placed at their disposal by the American Mail Line arrived at the Ogden Point docks about 12:30 o'clock to-day.

The imposing entrance to Victoria created the first favorable impressions.

A fair sample of sunny September weather in Victoria won further good impressions. Then came the cordial welcome on arrival. The music of the band which floated to them over the water was received with

TWO HUNTED BY THE POLICE IN VANCOUVER

G. S. Northcott and Mother Wanted in California as Police Investigate Murders

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—That Mrs. Louise Northcott left Gordon Stuart Northcott, twenty-one, her son, sought by California police in connection with the "murder ranch" charges in California, in Vancouver when she went east to the prairies is now believed by the local police. On her return journey to Vancouver, they state, she stopped at Kamloops Saturday to send wire to her son.

The telegram, they said, was addressed to a local barrister, apparently his father, Mr. W. J. Northcott. It was worded in a rambling manner, but analysing it, the police believe it was a warning to him to remain in hiding. "Only perfect rest and quiet is needed," reads a part of the message.

It is presumed Mrs. Northcott was at home in Vancouver, where she had been staying Sunday morning.

As other parts of the Pacific Northwest are included in the ticket agents' itinerary, Victoria made arrangements for them to see as much of the city as possible. Requests for cars to transport them around the city and environs were received from a ready response and the vicinity of Victoria was crowded with automobiles bearing guest signs.

There was little speechmaking. The civic welcome was extended as the delegates partook of their refreshments. The program was simple and short and most of them were keen for an automobile drive first through the city and then to some of the many beauty spots of the district with which some of them had heard. Sightseeing drives were fully supplemented by the supply of private automobiles with tally-ho and there was ample accommodation for all.

Gordon Stuart Northcott, her son, is believed to be in the British Columbia city.

Sixteen Charges Bring Sentences

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—Two years in the penitentiary on eleven charges of obtaining money by false pretences and six months on five minor charges of similar nature were the sentences meted out here to-day by Magistrate Shaw to W. J. Arrowsmith, who pleaded guilty a few days ago. The proceedings were fast-paced by a most sprightly spirit. The delegates singing songs at every opportunity, many persons summoned to the platform for presentation being greeted with song titles deemed appropriate.

Flier Starting World Plane Flight Missing

Moscow, Russia, Sept. 17.—Six men of the Russian plane Soviet of the North, missing since August 22 on a flight from Vladivostok to Leningrad, have been rescued by the steamship Stavropol.

Southampton, Eng., Sept. 17.—Authorities to-day expressed anxiety concerning George H. Stock of Seattle, who had been reported to have disappeared here since his flight from Vladivostok on the start of a 27,000-mile flight around the world. Stock planned to land at Paris. The object of the flight, undertaken in a thirty horsepower plane, was to demonstrate what an owner-pilot of a light airplane could accomplish.

FOUR MILLION BET ON RACES

Figures Show Yearly Increase on British Columbia Tracks

British Columbia spent over four and a half million dollars on race bets during the season which ended at Colwood track here Saturday.

Up to Friday night the total figure stood at $4,552,335, and while Saturday's takings have not been compiled officially, they are estimated at about $50,000. This would make the wager for the season $4,572,335.

These figures continue the story of British Columbia's increasing devotion to horse racing, for they are more than those of last year and nearly a million dollars in advance of those recorded in 1926.

The 1927 total was $4,311,591, and the figure for 1926, $3,708,716, when only forty-one days of racing were allowed, as against the fifty-six of this season and last. The claim of race advocates that the increase in the number of racing days will not raise the total of bets has been disproved by this growth in wagers.

With the increase recorded to-day the province is climbing slowly back to the bet figures recorded in the days before the Legislature stepped in and cut down the season.

In 1924, the last year of unrestricted racing, $6,397,565 was bet.

MOVE TO FREE EX-VICTORIAN OF MURDER CHARGE

Ottawa Informs Utah Courts of Alibi Proof For H. Philion in Canada

Geneva, Sept. 17.—The belief prevailed here to-day that the United States undoubtedly would be asked to participate in the deliberations of the commission of experts that will work for a complete and definite settlement of the reparations problem.

After a series of conversations, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, and Japan reached an agreement to name the commission and an acceptable date for special official negotiations looking to the evacuation of the Rhineland.

OTHER WAR DEBTS

In some circles the opinion was held that discussion of reparations would lead to a discussion of war debt in general.

Disclaimers were issued, however, by Europe, but any wish to drag the United States into the reparation discussion. Nevertheless, the general opinion in political circles appeared to be that nothing sound, complete or final could be accomplished without the collaboration of the republic, either through Government representatives or financiers who would reflect Washington's views.

LAST CHAPTER

When delegates of fifty nations to the Assembly of the League of Nations heard of the accord, the opinion was voiced that statesmen had begun to write the last chapter on liquidation of the consequences of the World War. Not only representatives of European countries but also those from America beyond the seas as well, saw in the preliminary agreements a solid basis for effective collaboration between governments and peoples for a general solution of the problems left by the war, particularly of all financial problems arising from fixation of German reparations on a basis of Germany's capacity to pay.

Some Geneva newspapers, describing the agreement, called it colossal.

The Japan was invited to sit on the commission of experts which will tackle the reparations problem. It was agreed that Europe's belief was that the question was not only European but international in its scope, with possible repercussions.

WILL STATE HOPE

A German spokesman said to-day that when the discussion began there would be room for the necessities and the hopes of Germany and the Allies. In connection with reparations, the German belief was that Seymour Parker Gilbert, Agent-General for Reparations, had already largely paved the way for the proposed study.

The belief was generally expressed also that the negotiations would have a repercussion on the Berner accord, under which France has been provisionally making arrangements for debt payments to the United States. Some thought it would be difficult if not impossible to avoid discussion of the relations of German reparations to the inter-allied debts in general.

CONFIDENCE MAN DEFRAUDS WOMAN

Under Role of Shipwrecked Canadian, Miscreant Steals Money and Jewelry

London, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press Cable)—Leslie Raymond, South African engineer, appeared in the Bow Street police court on Saturday charged with stealing £100, a wedding ring and a wrist watch by means of a confidence trick in which Canada House, the office of the Canadian High Commissioner here, was used as a means of escape.

The victim of the theft, a young Birmingham widow, Mrs. Elsie Brooks, testified she had met Raymond in a restaurant and invited him to her home when he was shipwrecked on his way back from Canada and that the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company had arranged to pay him $35,000 as compensation, but in the meantime he was without money and had no place to live.

The widow said she loaned him money and the next day handed him a wedding ring to pawn to enable him to have a passport picture taken. The picture was necessary, she said, if he was to be paid compensation at Canada House.

She also gave him the wrist watch to take to a jeweler for repairs.

The pair went to Canada House, she said, and her companion left her outside while he apparently went to draw the compensation money.

The young woman said that after he had entered Canada House, she never saw him again.

A detective gave evidence of a number of other complaints against Raymond which had reached Canada House. Other charges may be preferred against Raymond, who is also charged with assaulting a policeman.

The case was remanded.

Sees Danger In Higher Tariff On U.S. Coal

Informed that Nova Scotia coal interests are appealing to the tariff board for an increase in the Canadian tariff on American coal by 50 cents to $1.00 a ton, Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Mines, has circulated all coal operators in British Columbia to secure their views on this proposal.

It is feared at the mines department and by some of the operators that such a move would bring instant retaliation from the United States. An increase in the American tariff against Canadian coal, it is estimated, would hit the coal exports of British Columbia, particularly those from the Crows Nest Pass and Vancouver Island. Until it hears from the coal operators, the mines department will take no action on the Nova Scotia application, which is due to be heard in about ten days.

Chamberlains Visit Capital of Cuba

Havana, Cuba, Sept. 17.—Sir Austin Chamberlain, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who for his health is making a roundabout cruise to the Pacific Coast, spent nine hours in port here yesterday before proceeding to Panama. Lady Chamberlain told newspapermen her husband's health was greatly improved and that they were well pleased with the voyage.

Negotiations are being made to have the annual diocesan synod meet here during this time in order to let a greater number of people from all parts of the diocese attend the exhibition.

The proceeds of the bazaar, which will be held in the Memorial Hall gymnasium, will be added to the fund for providing the stonework and stained glass for windows in the baptistery of the new cathedral.

A meeting to complete organization for the big undertaking, and to provide funds for the various exhibits among the parishes co-operating, has been called for September 24, in the Memorial Hall.

The British-Israel subject for to-night will be "Before the Call of Abraham." T. H. Laundy will be the speaker, in the Board of Trade Hall.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE IN RENO

Reno, Nev., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Mildred Orton, former wife of the Danish consul in the Philippines and sister of E. C. Earl, harbor commissioner of Los Angeles, committed suicide here Saturday evening. The motive, according to the police, remains a mystery, although several theories have been advanced.

The most strongly urged theory, according to the police, is that of an unsuccessful love affair between Mrs. Orton and well-founded rumors, the woman visited the home of a prominent Reno man shortly before she came here in the beginning of the year. The man whom she visited could not be found and his wife refused to tell what transpired during the visit.

The annual sports of the schools of North and South Saanich have proven an attractive feature of the fair, and this year they will be of greater interest than ever. The schools of Saanichton held their elimination trials on Saturday afternoon at Beaver Lake, and will be represented by strong entries in all events. The Sidney school is expecting to repeat the successes of last year.

the Provincial Legislature. The ruling was carried with a division of the charge against Wong Kit, Richmond Chinese farmer, of marketing potatoes in violation of the statute. Magistrate Darling ruled that the act did not apply to shipments outside the Province.

While Mr. Attwells was preparing his report in view of going into the legal aspects of the judgment, he claimed that by co-operation and reporting of shipments it should be possible for growers to prevent produce rolling to points which were already overloaded, without stopping the farmer from selling his goods where he thought he could best dispose of them.

OPERATION ATTACKED

An Act might be a good statute and draw criticism if it was not well prepared. Without commenting on the justness of the complaint, he drew attention to a meeting of potato growers in Cloverdale, where failure was alleged against the potato committee of the Mainland to handle the situation. The meeting of the early crop of potatoes. The meeting called for the resignation of the potato committee in a resolution expressing no confidence in the men who comprised it. The resolution had been brought before the Minister and F. M. Blane, chairman of the Interior Committee of Direction.

A committee of the potato growers composed of Charles E. Hope, Langley; Col. A. McLellan, Surrey, and William Montgomery, has reported as follows:

"In our opinion the fact that the Lower Fraser Valley already produces more potatoes than the chief market, Vancouver, can take care of, we believe that effective and loyal co-operation between potato growers of the Lower Fraser Valley and the interior cannot be brought about until Oriental competition is either eliminated or greatly reduced."

INCREASED MIDDLE MEN

"Instead of reducing the number of intermediaries, or middlemen, between the producer and consumer, as is the object of most co-operative movements, the operation of the potato committee of direction has increased the number of middlemen two-fold."

"The overhead cost of committee of direction is out of all proportion to volume of business, and the industry cannot support it."

"The operation of the committee of direction has been extremely unsatisfactory, so far as the marketing of early potatoes is concerned. This appears to be the result of self-interests—inexperience of the committee in the business itself, visionary ideas and impracticable regulations—and, although we understand some changes in the regulations have been made, there is grave doubt if any real improvement can be looked for in handling the main crop."

"We see no hope for successful co-operation in marketing of potatoes either by pool or otherwise, so long as the majority of the crop in volume is produced by an alien race, who are opposed to any kind of control. This majority of alien production, we believe, applies to the Lower Fraser as well as the interior."

"It is very doubtful if potato control can be made a success under present conditions, but its only possible chance is to reduce the overhead costs and change in the personnel of the committee, preferably to a committee of one, some man who not only has a practical knowledge of the business but who also has the confidence of the growers."

THE TRIANGULAR AIR SERVICE

IT IS HOPE THAT THE BRITISH COLUMBIA AIRWAYS soon will be in a position to resume the aerial passenger service between this city and the Mainland. In the short time in which the company's monoplane had been in operation this new means of transportation over the triangular route had become popular and the business offering amply justified the proposal to extend the facilities by the provision of another plane.

Aerial travel now no longer is a novelty. It is a development of the march of progress and we may assume that before very long the small aeroplane will be almost as common a sight as the small motor car. There will be accidents, of course, just as there are accidents on land and water; but the amazing thing about the air services on this and other continents is that disasters, particularly in the case of large passenger liners, are very rare indeed. Unusual and unforeseen conditions attended the ill-fated flight to Seattle three weeks ago. Regrettably as that was, however, it should not deter the local concern from instituting a new service with as little delay as possible. The company is assured of all the patronage it will require to justify its enterprise. It was a courageous undertaking in the first place and the support extended to it must have been gratifying.

The type of machine which is most suitable for the service is a question by itself. Experts are divided in their opinions. We may be sure, however, that the company will take all the circumstances into consideration and shape its policy accordingly. The important thing to do is to resume operations. The public had become accustomed to flying between here and the Mainland and from all reports it will cordially welcome the arrival of another machine.

LORD LOVAT'S MISSION

SINCE HE ARRIVED IN CANADA SOME weeks ago Lord Lovat has been an extremely busy man. He has delivered a number of speeches, given many interviews, and made numerous statements on the subject of Empire migration. Conferences with Dominion and provincial officials have occupied a good deal of his time and we may assume that he has gathered much useful information about the subject with which his mission is associated. He is a visitor to Victoria to-day and to-morrow afternoon will address the Women's Canadian Club.

Practically every angle of the immigration question has been discussed in the newspapers and on the platforms of this country in recent months. To what effect we may not know. It is fortunate, however, that some plain and wholesome truths have been uttered. Some of them may not have been pleasant; but it was time to state them. There is ample room in this Dominion for many more millions of people. How are they to be brought here? It is desirable that we attract as many as we can from the British Isles. For every one of these, we were assured by Premier King some time ago, we spend something like $16.70 in propaganda. It costs about eleven cents to interest the Continental European. If there were nothing else to show that we are doing our best to attract more British stock, this fact ought to prove it.

An eminent New Zealander, in a speech recently in Great Britain, hit the nail on the head when he said that "what is wanted for the success of emigration is the desire of the individual to go to the Dominions and not the desire of the British Government to send him there." A contemporary notes—and the point is well taken—that "the fact that the Government desires to send them away is having a considerable effect in causing many people to refuse to move." The inference is that they object to being exported, deported, or transported for the convenience of a government against which they always have cast their ballots.

It has been said many times, and the point has lost none of its force, that the best settler is the man who packs up his effects and casts in his lot with the new country without telling anybody but his immediate relatives and friends. He comes unheralded and unsung. He pays his own way, rubs along as best he can for the time being, but soon finds something which suits him. This is the man who has the "desire" of which the New Zealander speaks. The last thing he wants to do is to write home and confess failure. There is seldom any cause for him to do so. It is this type of immigrant which made possible the remarkable progress of the United States.

SEPTEMBER'S PROMISE

IT IS HIGH TIME THAT SOMEONE EXPLODED THE OLD TRADITION ABOUT SPRING AND FALL. Spring is supposed to be the season of hope, inspiration, and the full-flowing life, while Autumn is generally accepted as the time of decay and despair. We take it for granted that we are to be vibrant in April and melancholy, not to say despondent, in September. And it is time somebody snapped us out of it. September, for all except college sophomores and young men in love, is as fine a month as you could ask for. Chiefly, there is the master of the sunrise.

Dawn, in September, does not come at any disgracefully early hour. It waits until the householder is stirring; then it unfolds itself, but quietly and with restraint, as if it sought to make its appeal to sober maturity. It does not try to take one by storm, does not force its beauty on one's attention; it simply is there, pervading the east peacefully and with serenity.

To be sure, a September dawn lacks the wild promises of Spring; but what of that? The promises of Spring, for the most of us, are made only to be broken. The year never fulfills what April foretells. April is a cheat and a flatterer, and in time we see through her. There never yet was a Spring flower that failed to wither beneath the scorching sun of August.

September is wiser and more restrained. There is no flamboyant deception in her clear morning air, no false hint that the world is about to be remade. That would not go down. We have grown too wise. We know, when September comes, that the world will always wag much as it always has; but we are resigned to it. The Autumn wind, just touched with frost, drifts idly from ripening fields and heavily-laden orchards, and it is redolent of an earth grown peaceful. It is chilly, at times, foretelling Winter; but that does not matter. We can stand it. September is our breathing space.

For Autumn, and September in particular, is, after all, a time of promise. In the serene, sober beauty of the countryside, and in the clear amber of its pale skies, there lies an assurance that can never be got out of books. This assurance, stealing quietly into the contemplative hearts of diverse, struggling toilers, does not deal with Spring's fabulous rebirth and resurrection. It goes deeper than that. It hints of a life that transcends resurrection and rebirth. For a moment a curtain is drawn aside and we get a glimpse of eternity.

A BURGLAR'S DRESS

THERE ARE MANY KINDS OF FAME in this world. It is only natural for man to seek distinction, and there are so many different fields that nearly everyone ought to be able to achieve it in some fashion.

The other day, in Paris, the police arrested a young burglar. When they searched his apartment they found he had 125 suits of clothes, for each of which he had a hat, shoes, shirt, tie and handkerchiefs to match.

Proudly this young second-story worker explained that he was the best dressed burglar in Paris—indeed, in all of Europe, if not in the world. He still was preening himself over this when they led him away to prison.

There are, as we have said, various kinds of fame. Holding the title of the world's best dressed burglar is one of the oddest.

SOME APPLE PIE!

O'RELEANS COUNTY, IN NEW YORK, IS proud of its apples. It wants the country at large to know how good they are. So it is baking the world's largest apple pie—a monster affair that will measure twelve feet across and weigh more than two tons—for exhibition at the Orleans county fair.

This is a praiseworthy venture, of course, and there is no reason why we in Victoria should not hope that Orleans county will win recognition for its apples. Yet we distrust this business of baking twelve-foot apple pies.

There already are too many cooks in the world who feel that quantity is the sole desideratum in baking apple pies, and other pies, for that matter. This is a woeful mistake, and has led to gastronomic atrocities. Properly prepared, the apple pie is a dish for the gods. Poorly done, it is a crime against humanity.

Let the Orleans county folk promote the baking of better apple pies, not bigger ones, and Victoria will

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

AL SMITH AND PROHIBITION

From The New York Times

(Al Smith declares that he will, if elected President, attempt to change the prohibition law of the United States to a law of Government control. Thus prohibition, kept out of politics, becomes the major question in the presidential campaign.) Without regard to the final result, the coming of political discussion thus forced on the country cannot be said to be unwholesome. People will have a chance to express themselves by ballot on a matter of great public importance about which they have been thinking and talking for years. Thus far political manoeuvring has hindered them in expressing their opinion, whatever it may be, in the only effective way open to citizens in a democracy. Now they are to have a vent. There will be something of the nature of a popular referendum on this whole question. That cannot be regarded as undesirable by anyone who believes welfare is to be kept out of politics, then more and more will people be asking, "What is the use of politics?" The plan was to have the campaign very much like a polite fencing match between the parties, which really had no essential difference in politics. But it is to be a clash of real swords. From now on the Republican strategists, at least here in the East, will spend their days and nights wondering how they are going to ward off the stroke of the rapier which Governor Smith has drawn and thrust at them.

SIX ALIBI CONVENTIONS

Another millesime convention is always play through strength." Assume that you are second hand and have the lead on the third round. Dummy's remaining cards are:

Spades 8 6 5
Hearts A Q
Diamonds A K Q J
Club K J

Following this convention literally you would lead through the strongest suit, diamonds. But east may be holding the Ace-Queen of clubs and you lead a diamond, west will probably be delighted for it will give him an opportunity to discard losing clubs on the winning diamonds in the dummy.

Before leading through the dummy, always attempt to visualize your partner's hand and then lead in a manner which will not enable him to deduce to capture your partner's possible winning cards. If you cannot draw an inference as to your partner's holdings, lead through broken suits, such as A X X, A J X, A Q X, K X X, K Q X, J X X or K 10 X in preference to solid suits A K Q J, K Q J, Q J X, A Q J X X, K 10 X.

Fine ships alone, however, could not build up a fine service, and Captain Troup had taken pains to build up a personnel whose loyalty had helped him to create that wonderful central service. He was sure he was expressing the wish of every man connected with the service when he extended to him every best wish in his retirement.

PROVINCE WILL DO BRIDGE WORK

Public Works Department Orders Extensive Improvements

The new road built at the Surrey end of the Fraser River bridge will be improved and given an application of asphalt. The Provincial Department of Public Works announces. The work will commence within the next week or ten days. It will not be necessary to close the thoroughfare, and the only inconvenience likely to be experienced by traffic is an occasional brief delay.

Extensive improvements are to be made to the Pacific Highway bridge over the Nicomekl River, south of Cloverdale at the same time as the work at South Westminster is under way. A new deck will be built on the Nicomekl structure and the level of the pavement at each end will be raised to eliminate the sharp approaches, which at present are considered a source of danger. The highway will be kept open while this project is under way.

Plans Of New Hockey League Announced

Definite Statement On New Hockey Loop Is Made By Patrick

Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle and Portland Will Be Four Teams in Pacific Coast Hockey League Which Will Operate This Winter; Each Team to Play Eighteen Home Games; Plenty of Players Secured With Strong Teams Promised for Each City

Definite plans of organization bringing the Pacific Coast Hockey League into existence have been completed and the new loop which is to revive professional hockey on the Coast will embrace four cities—Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle and Portland.

There will be eighteen home games in each city, and a portion of the home and all away contests will be broadcast by radio.

Several conferences have been held lately by those active in the formation of the league, and final organization and election of officers will take place in Seattle next month.

GOOD VICTORIANS

Victoria will have a team of real calibre and will be one of the best in the circuit, Lester Patrick declared this morning. While Seattle and Portland are said to be confining themselves to a set of speedy amateurs, who are just turning professional, the local team will be composed of seasoned veterans of the game, with a sprinkling of amateurs who will get the experience and speed things up.

"There will be no argument about the standard of the Victoria players," Mr. Patrick said. "When a fan will be given them when the Cougars were here the first year the league is in operation, there is plenty of talent to draw from, and when the players are in mid-season form there will be no worry about their drawing power."

MANAGER NOT CHOSEN

The manager of the Victoria squad has not yet been selected, but league officials are now looking around for a capable handler.

"Almost enough players to bring the league into activity have already been secured," said Frank Patrick in Vancouver to-day. "Many of them are players of experience and the balance are outstanding amateurs from the prairies and the West."

"There will not be one player of the old Western Canada League in action," Mr. Patrick went on, "but we have obtained a number of skilled players and others that we hope will prove stars."

WELL BACKED

"Recently Pete Muldoon, representing Seattle, Bobby Rose, Portland, Lester and Frank Patrick, held an all-day session in this city when it was shown that the league is almost ready to function. Seattle men are behind that city's entry and Rose is well backed financially in Portland."

Victoria will not be directed by Lester Patrick, who is returning soon to head the New York Rangers again, but the capacity of the club is a strong club and is expected to be a big factor in the race from the outset.

"Vancouver will have a strong, fast young club," said Frank Patrick, who will direct that city's entry.

MAJOR CAREER

"Recently Pete Muldoon, representing Seattle, Bobby Rose, Portland, Lester and Frank Patrick, held an all-day session in this city when it was shown that the league is almost ready to function. Seattle men are behind that city's entry and Rose is well backed financially in Portland."

"Seattle will be the strongest club in the circuit, judging by the calibre of talent they have obtained. They paid $2,500 for the release of one well-known professional in their team. That is an indication, if you like, that the league means business and that we are prepared to spend money to get skilled performers."

Baseball Club In Coast Loop Will Be Sold

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—The biggest baseball surprise of the 1928 season came out of the local market when it was revealed that the Mississauga annexed the B.C. softball team of the Royal Victoria Park on Saturday afternoon. The visitors, behind the effective pitching of Frances Andrews, ran up an early lead and finished off the game by scoring five runs in the fifth and sixth innings to win by 10 to 3. The game was chosen in preference to October 3, because of the close races in both leagues and the necessity of handling vast numbers of tickets on short notice.

Chicago Lady Wins Canada's Golfing Crown

Montreal, Sept. 17.—The Canadian women's open golf championship passed into the hands of Virginia Wilson of Chicago Saturday. In a battle of tournament medalists, she defeated Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, N.Y., 5 up and 4 to play in the 36-hole final round. She marked the second time in two years that Canada's chief women's golfing prize developed into a final round duel between two stars. Last year Helen Payson of Portland, Maine, defeated Fritzi Stiefel of Wheeling, W.Va., to win the championship. Miss Payson was eliminated in the second round of the current championship.

Racing Season Opened Sunday At Longchamps

Paris, Sept. 17.—The Royal Oak Stakes, worth 200,000 francs, featured the opening of Longchamps' autumn racing season yesterday, and turned into a private duel between horses of the Rothschild family. Cacso, owned by Baron Edouard De Rothschild and held at 10 to 1 in the betting, just got up by half a length from Baron Robert De Rothschild's Pinegreen. Magines was third. Lady Mortimer's Mary Legend, the favorite, at 2 to 1, finished last.

Phil Taylor Shoots Sixty-nine at Tricky Colwood Golf Course

Any golfer who shoots a 72 from the back tees at the beautiful and tricky course at Colwood has every reason to stick out his chest. When Walter Pursey of Seattle made pace at the end of the Pacific Northwest meet last year a number of professional and amateur experts made up their minds to equal it or beat it. But the job had baffled them all until Phil Taylor, the genial professional at the Victoria Golf Club, notched one stroke off Pursey's record the same day, Taylor's record on a 72.

While Pursey's record is still the world's record for eighteen holes over a course of more than 6,000 yards with a 62.

LOCAL GOLFERS WILL PLAY IN B.C. TOURNEY

Championship Matches For Amateurs and Pros to Be Held This Week

A championship match for professionals and amateur golfers of British Columbia will be held at Shaughnessy Golf Links, Vancouver, this week. Several players are expected to go over from Victoria, including Phil Taylor, the pro at Oak Bay, and Goldwyn Terry.

The professional play will be held over seventy-two holes, with a prize of $200 for the winner. There are five other prizes, ranging down to $25 for the sixth.

Amateur play will be open to those with handicap of four or less, and will include twenty-two holes of play, prizes being for the best gross and best net over each thirty-six holes, and for the best gross and net over the whole seventy-two holes.

Johnny Farrell Beats Hagen in Titular Series

New York, Sept. 17.—Johnny Farrell, National open golf champion, defeated Walter Hagen, British open champion, one up yesterday in their fourth 36-hole match for the "unofficial world's championship." The series is now tied at two apiece, in games.

Good work by Etta Maynard in the first half of the third brought in the first local tally. She was safe at first when Frances Andrews fumbled her grounders. She stole second and third, and came home on Torrie Reanie's single.

Miss Fassine tallied in the last half of this inning.

LOCALS THREATEN

The locals threatened in the fourth when, with the score 3-1 against them, they had runners on first and third with only one out. But Jon Speed was caught off guard on a foul ball and E. H. Stephens' bunt was grabbed by Miss Fassine in centre field.

Leeds United had their good record this season marred by Huddersfield Town. Huddersfield led by two goals to nil at the interval. Huddersfield got four more and Leeds one.

Bedford, who was one of the scorers for Derby County against Sheffield Wednesday, brought his total counters in league football up to 200 yesterday. In this match Stephenson did the hat trick for Derby. The Wednesday were badly beaten and outplayed from start to finish.

HARD FOUGHT DRAW

Manchester United and Liverpool battled sternly to a two-all draw.

After a hard-fought contest from the meeting of Aston Villa and United, the crowd attending the record for the day, 60,000, the only scoreless game was the affair at Highbury between Arsenal and Birmingham.

In the second division scoring honors went to Coglin of Grimsby, who got five counters against Clapton Orient.

Chester retained their leadership in the averages through Andy Wilson's lone tally against Barnsley.

Jones Wields Deadly Niblick In Deciding Match In His Favor

T. P. Perkins, Completely Off His Game, Is Crushingly Defeated by Champion in Final for United States Amateur Golf Crown; Score Is 10 and 9; Jones Sets a Record in Decisively Annexing His Fourth Amateur Title in Five Years

Newton, Mass., Sept. 17.—The rather stoutish but exceedingly business-like young man who dominates American links strode up and down the hills of Braeburn Saturday, wielding a niblick that dealt death and destruction to the hopes of British golf in general and the ambitions of Thomas Phillip Perkins in particular.

While a pop-eyed gallery of some 6,000 spectators watched him in astonishment, Bobby Jones crushed the champion of Great Britain, 10 up and 9 to play, in the most one-sided match for the amateur championship of the United States in thirty-three years.

The great Georgian, reaching a higher pinnacle of amateur victory than ever before in his amateur career, thus completed his ruthless march to a fourth national amateur title in five years and his eighth triumph in six years in either American or British national tournaments.

EQUALS RECORD

His fourth and by long odds most decisive amateur victory equals the record of Jerome D. Trahey, the only other person to win the American crown four times. Bobby's achievement is even better, however, for he has been a finalist five straight times, while Trahey spread his triumphs over a seven-year period.

In these last five championships, Jones has won twenty-three out of twenty-four rounds, losing only once to George von Elm in the 1926 final in compiling the greatest record any American amateur has ever known. If there has ever been a colossus of golf it is this chunky, fair-haired son of the South, who annihilates Old Man Par.

Wielding these weapons with infinite skill and telling effect, Cochet and Hunter marched through their semi-final rounds Saturday afternoon after a howling, cheering, applauding crowd of about 10,000 spectators under direction of George Hoyt of Chicago, by scores of 6-8, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, and Cochet, the master of the guileful stroke, outwitted Frank Shields, lanky national junior champion, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4.

For that particular day it was written that youth should not be served. However, the two who were defeated gave all kinds of promise for future greatness, particularly the lanky Shields, whose cannoneading service and skillful craft, recalling Big Bill Tilden, gave the gallery many a thrill before he finally succumbed.

Perkins, the first Briton to reach the American finals since Harold Hilton was victorious in 1922, was no match for Jones. The promise of a keen titanic struggle, indicated by the youthful manner of the youthful Englishman in his way to the final, was quickly dissipated, whether it was because he could not forget the 13 and 12 thrashing he absorbed two weeks ago at the hands of Jones or whether the tension of the title match was too much for him, the invader's game went almost completely to pieces.

Perkins won only two holes, the first and seventeenth. His approximate medal score, at best, was 17 strokes over par for the twenty-seven holes, while Jones was exactly even with standard figures.

With this eloquent difference in their striking ability, it seemed almost ridiculous to expect that the American can gain lead of six strokes over the first eighteen holes, where he had one streak of winning eight out of ten straight holes, and settled the match at the twenty-seventh green.

With this eloquent difference in their striking ability, it seemed almost ridiculous to expect that the American can gain lead of six strokes over the first eighteen holes, where he had one streak of winning eight out of ten straight holes, and settled the match at the twenty-seventh green.

Perkins won only two holes, the first and seventeenth. His approximate medal score, at best, was 17 strokes over par for the twenty-seven holes, while Jones was exactly even with standard figures.

Capitals Are Senior "B" Champs

Win By Three Runs In Third Game For B.C. Baseball Title

After Series With Britannia Mines Is Evened on Saturday, Caps Take Deciding Game at Duncan Yesterday by Score of 10 to 7; Last Inning Rally With Score Tied Gives Local Team Their Margin of Victory; Umpires Argue

Victoria Capitals are senior "B" baseball champions of British Columbia this year. In the third and deciding game of a series for the title, the Caps defeated Britannia Mines by 10-7 at Duncan yesterday afternoon. A last inning rally which netted the winning three-run margin gave the local team the title.

The Caps had no cinch in getting their hands on the crown. After they had won an easy game last Friday, it seemed as if they were going to take the honors in a walk, but Britannia upset the applecart by turning in a fine performance Saturday and laicng the locals by 7-6, incidentally tying up the series.

UMPIRES ARGUE

Pieces of excitement with some pretty baseball was dished up for the large crowd of rabid fans which attended the Sunday game. An argument between the umpires nearly created a riot in the last inning, but the situation was finally handled to the satisfaction of most of the crowd and the game ended.

The argument was over a pitched ball officialing on bases, thought there should have been a walk granted and continue the argument. One of the fans got excited and attempted to settle it amicably by taking a pot at Umpire Evans, but this method also failed. In the end Cummins went to bat again and Webster stayed on first. Cummins settled the argument to his own satisfaction by working Pitcher Kozak for a walk. It resulted in the Capitals staging the rally which won the game.

BRITANNIA LEADS

The situation looked black for Victoria after the first four innings had gone by. The Caps scored once in the first, but three naughts were registered in the next three innings. Meanwhile the Mainlanders had slipped five runners over, two in the first, two in the third and another in the fourth.

In the fifth the Caps got to work and on some slick hitting and base running, including Webster's scorching three-bagger between second and third, sent four runners across the platter.

In the next inning they repeated the dose, although not quite as strong, and two more of the boys came home.

Britannia replied with a run in their half of the sixth and in the seventh sent another runner across to tie up the score.

EIGHTH SCORELESS

The eighth went scoreless, but in the ninth the Caps did their stuff, and, despite the argument of the umpires, they ran up enough runs to win. Webster started it with a pretty single. Herb Cummins got his delayed walk and Kozak, rattled by the argument, also passed Forbes. None out and the bases full, Duncan, Kozak, and the baseman then committed the prize bobble of the game by fumbling McKenzie's grounder and Cummins and Forbes trotted across the plate. It was all over but the shouting, for Britannia registered nil in their half of the ninth.

The Caps used two pitchers to stop the hard-hitting Brittanians. With a sore arm as a result of some intensive relief work Saturday night, Forbes started for the local team, but his arm gave out and Dangerfield took up the

The Capitales were short by one run in the second game of the series on Saturday, which finished in the eighth inning on account of darkness. A single by Hayden of the Mainland team, sending Whyte across the plate in the bottom of the eighth, proved to be the winning score.

The local boys started well, sending four runners home in the first inning, while Britannia had scored but once. Some fast base work by Murty Dunn, a double by Minnis, Webster's single, a bit by Cummins and a sacrifice by Forbes followed by a walk and an error, gave the Caps their runs.

Kozak, on the mound for Britannia, held the locals scoreless during the next six innings, while the visitors chalked up three runs in the sixth to tie the score and then added two in the seventh and one in the eighth. The Caps made a late inning rally in the last inning of the eighth, but their efforts were checked after two runners had crossed the plate.

Long Putts Decide Totem Competition On Jasper Course

Jasper National Park, Alta., Sept. 17.—Spectacular puts, one of forty feet that went in and stayed in, and one of twenty-five feet that went in and came out, decided the competition for the best place for the next year of the thousand dollar silver totem pole trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Jasper Park Lodge golf course. On the green from the bunker in three, but forty feet past the pin, Alfred Bull of the Jasper Park club Vancouver, rolled his ball down a treacherous knoll on the green, dead to the cup for a par four. His opponent, Monty Hill, of the Quilchena club, Vancouver, recovering from a dubious second to find the green twenty-five feet from the pin and facing the orders of sinking his putt or losing the championship, did not do a beautiful job. The putt just a little bit strong, struck the far lip of the cup, hesitated, then rolled three inches beyond.

The medal score for the match was:

Bull—Out 454455533—36
In 643864454—41

Hill—Out 454466533—40
In 554454445—39

In three years competition for the totem pole trophy has been staged for the honors than that of this morning between the old experienced Jericho player and the youth, who, less than two years ago, was his caddy. Hill, overcoming a nervousness that was natural in a young player and battling against an unwavering brand of golf, fought an uphill fight from the fifth hole to the eleventh on the seven-hole course. His game improved him as a player to be watched in all major competitions as soon as he has had a little more experience in match play.

WINNIPEG WOMAN WINS

Mrs. C. Allen, St. Charles Country Club, Winnipeg, and, for the first time, champion, won the final of the ladies' championship from Miss Maud Smith, Toronto Golf Club, and runner-up in the year's Ontario championships, and like the totem pole final, this game produced the finest brand of golf ever displayed by women players on this course. At the turn Miss Smith was one up.

CONCEDED HOLES

Twice in the morning round Bobby putted conceded holes without naming his putter. At the twenty-fifth hole, where the American's drive hit a gallery marsh in the head and knocked him unconscious for a few minutes, Perkins drove into a ditch and took a penalty stroke. At the twenty-sixth the Briton sliced his drive wildly, hit a three, overhanded, and came up short, while Bobby rolled a typewriter footer in for a birdie. These were typical of the wide gulf between the games of the two finalists.

William Haines In "Telling The World" Now At Dominion

Popular Star Forsakes Farce-comedy and Plays in First Comedy-melodrama Here To-day, Tuesday and Wednesday; Play Is Story of Newspaper Work in All Parts of World

For the first time since he was elevated to stardom, William Haines forsakes his farce-comedy and enters an entirely new field for his latest starring picture, "Telling the World," playing at the Dominion Theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

This field is that of comedy-melodrama with Haines in the role of a little cabaret girl is but a jump to the chance at the coveted press assignment—that Mecca of all good press association men. Instead of accepting this long coveted opportunity, however, the star follows the girl of his choice to the interior of China where he rescues her from Chinese bandits in a melodramatic sequence which is thrilling and yet at the same time funny with the added fun that only Haines seems able to put in his pictures.

This type of story is radically different from anything that the star has ever done before and gives him an opportunity to reveal an entirely new side of his character quite contrary from the "wise-cracking" athlete of some of his sport pictures.

"Telling the World" also serves as young newspaper man who becomes intrigued by the work of the great press associations which bring the news of the world into the city room of his newspaper via the automatic telegraph-recording machine, the "Iron Mike" of the news gang slang.

"Something Will Turn Up" Is Philosophy With Which Ex-General Washes Dishes

Quebec, Sept. 17.—Micawber-like, though with a vastly different justification, General Gough, a middle-aged, balding, pipe-smoking Charles Henry Gough, "D.S.O., D.C.M." always has been convinced that something would turn up. His attitude is not without justification in his story of his past, which runs:

Drummer boy in the British Army at fourteen.

Served with the British and Australian armies during the next nineteen years in South Africa, Theatret, France, Australia, Egypt, England, France, and at Gallipoli.

Won the rank of brigadier-general, distinguished conduct medal, distinguished service order, Croix de Guerre.

Baddy wounded, saved from permanent disability by a bone-grafting operation.

Employed by New York business concerns, and in night clubs as a musician.

Came to Canada and got job washing dishes in the Chateau Frontenac, lead-

Gough cited official British and Australian records as proof that his military career was one of truth, not fancy. "But military records are not great asset in civil life," he said. "I took a job washing dishes in the Chateau Frontenac because I could find nothing else. I do not suffer from any feelings of rancor. A sense of humor averts all that."

An exploding shell took away part of his right thigh near the end of the war, he told. He spent five months in army hospitals. A bone-grafting operation was a success, and now he walks comfortably.

Between war experiences, Gough has tried his hand at writing. He exhibits works by himself on "The Dare Devil Anzacs" and "With the Australians at Gallipoli," as well as magazine and newspaper articles and some vibrant poetry.

Bearing out anew his philosophy that "something will turn up," two new and better jobs were offered to him when his identity became known.

Anita Page . . . Harry K. Thaw couldn't get her into movies, but she makes good herself.

By DAN THOMAS

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 17.—The movies have come to San Diego and the Coronado Beach Hotel and getting paid for it is fine. But staying on a stuffy train out in the sun, in a room that's sweltering but a glaring sun, miles and miles of sand and a temperature of about 130 degrees is something entirely different.

There aren't any gigantic studios being built—merely a motion picture company here, on location. The presence of such an aggregation is still novel enough to hand the natives a big wallop.

Ramon Novarro heads the company that is here now making a picture at the North Island Naval Air Base. Many of the navy fliers are taking part in the picture—and they like it. It's the most excitement they have had in a long time.

THEY'RE POPULAR

The social colony at Coronado Beach, where the company is living, is all aflutter too—particularly the boys and girls of marriageable age. Whenever Novarro or his leading lady, beautiful Anita Page, strolls down the street there is many a backward glance and many a sigh.

It's hard to tell which is the most popular, Novarro or Miss Page. Miss Page, former protege of Harry K. Thaw, has every available officer at her navy base trailing around after her. And the pretty girls summering at Coro-do aren't a bit backward about expressing their desire to meet Novarro.

"I'm having more fun I ever had in my life," the pretty Anita told me. "This is my first location trip and I'm all for it."

Anita no doubt will change her mind after she has been on some location trips. Staying at the fashionable Coronado Beach Hotel and getting paid for it is fine. But staying on a stuffy train out in the sun, in a room that's sweltering but a glaring sun, miles and miles of sand and a temperature of about 130 degrees is something entirely different.

SAYS "HELLO," "GOOD-BYE"

"Gold Break" is a story of naval aviation which winds up with an attempted flight to Hawaii.

About the only reason Miss Page is in the picture is because all movies must have a heroine, just as when Moon did "The White Tunic." Anita is the prettiest of her time saying goodbye to the fliers whenever they hop off and welcoming them upon their return. But she does it beautifully.

It's Anita's fourth picture since she "crashed" filmdom, ten months ago. The pretty girl, whom Thaw with all his millions couldn't "put across" has attained real success entirely on her own—proving that influence isn't always necessary in Hollywood. It's a big help though.

It's hard to tell which is the most popular, Novarro or Miss Page. Miss

Splendid Picture Of Tramp Life At Capitol Theatre

"Beggars of Life," Starring Wallace Beery, Richard Arlen and Louise Brooks, Opens Three-day Run Here; Comedians, Dancers and Singers Make Up Vaudeville Turns

The most amazing language in the world, the jargon of American tramp life, is being assembled by Jim Tully, declared H. H. Mencken to be the world's leading writer. His new play, "A Startling Drama by Tully, "Beggars of Life," with its background this colorful and little known world within a world, was filmed at the Paramount studio in Hollywood and will show at the Capitol Theatre to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Wallace Beery, with Richard Arlen and Louise Brooks, heads the cast of "Beggars of Life." And William Wellman, director of "Wings," directed this production.

"There are many strange jargons and lingoos in tramp life," says Tully, who himself spent eight years on the road.

"Tramps are inventors of words for their own use, and these words often pass into popular slang and sometimes into the language. The words bloke, stall, bughouse, stiff, yegg, boomer, keister (for suitcase) and bennie (for overcoat) are their inventions."

"Martin Luther compiled a tramp dictionary in 1926—had hundred years ago. From that day the jargon of tramps has always been picturesque."

The stage attractions for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are varied and include among them such artists as Rastus Buckner, the well-known comedian; the Staunton Sisters, champion hard shoe dancers of America, and Gonella and Wilson, in Italian songs and end instruments. Harold Bechtel.

FOUR DEATHS IN ONTARIO FIRE

Young Woman and Three Children Perish When Home Burns

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Four persons were burned to death in fire which destroyed a two-story frame residence in the village of Britannia, a western suburb of Ottawa, about 15 miles from the city. Those who lost their lives were: Miss Jean Agnes Lenihan, twenty-two, of Syracuse, New York; Mary Edna Walters, nine; Austin Joseph Walters, seven, and Gordon L. Walters, four, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Walters of Britannia.

The cause of the fire is not known. Mrs. Walters was at the Auditorium, a theatre nearby, having left her sister, Miss Lenihan, with the children. Miss Lenihan was on a visit here. Mr. Walters, who had been ill recently, was at a farm a few miles away. Shortly before midnight the house was noticed in flames and the place was consumed. In the confusion, it was some time before it could be ascertained whether the occupants had escaped, but towards morning, as the firemen searched the cooling ruins, the body of Gordon was found and after that the charred remains of the others.

FIRE IN GRATE

Miss Lenihan had not been feeling well and had gone upstairs and retired before Mrs. Walters and two other women who rented a part of the house left for the Auditorium. A small fire was burning in an open grate in the living room. No word was heard at any time from the visitors, and the first intimation the neighbors had of the fire was when they saw the house ablaze. By this time the heat was so intense no person could approach the building. From the position in which the bodies were found, it is believed the victims were suffocated in their sleep. All four were found under the twisted remains of beds and charred clothing.

WIND SPREADS SPARKS

A strong wind which was blowing at the time rendered the task of fighting difficult and during the height of the blaze the firemen were unable to direct their attention to nearby dwellings which were menaced by flying embers. The arrival of the parents was the signal for tragic scenes. When they were unable to ascertain whether or not their children had been safely removed from the house the firemen rushed to bring them. The division of police-men and firemen in a frantic effort to gain entry into the house.

IMMIGRATION PLAN OPPOSED

Anglican Bishop of Saskatchewan Says Bringing of Europeans is Mistake

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 17—Canada's British connection, the preservation of British sympathies and the safety of Canada, the language are threatened to a very grave extent by "the wide open door of unrestricted immigration which is flooding the three prairie provinces with non-preferred continental Europeans," Right Rev. George E. Lloyd, D.D., Anglican Bishop of Saskatchewan, said here yesterday.

The most serious aspect of the problem, Bishop Lloyd said, was the agreement with the railways respecting immigration.

"The only people who can advocate the wide open door policy are either those ignorant of the situation in the west or those who are not prepared to face their labors," the Bishop said. "The movement to bring in British harvesters would be quite all right and 10,000 could have easily been assimilated if the railways had not flooded the country with non-preferred continentals during the whole of last year and for the four months preceding the coming of the harvest."

"The extraordinary thing is that so many of the British harvesters managed to get a foothold."

Stating the National Association of Canada was determined the agitation against the railway immigration agreement would continue until it should be canceled, Bishop Lloyd characterized it as "one of the most vicious things ever done in this country."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Eric Danielson, charged with assaulting John Williams, was remanded in City Police Court to-day for trial Tuesday.

A charge of failing to give a pawn ticket to a customer, preferred on remand, was dropped. Lillian in the City Police Court to-day was dismissed. H. A. Maclean, K.C., appeared for the defendants, who explained the transaction as having been misunderstood by the complainant.

Charged with inducing Albert F. Griffiths by false pretence to endorse a draft for $300, Allison H. Taylor appeared before Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court to-day and was remanded until Tuesday for hearing. Stuart Henderson appeared for the defendant, who reserved his plea.

To-night and to-morrow night at 8 o'clock in the Y.W.C.A. Allan Crabtree of Elim Chapel, Winnipeg, will give an address on the subjects, "The Coming of Christ," and "The Blessedness and Beneficaries of Christ's Second Coming."

The Kiwanis Club and Gyro Club will to-morrow be joint luncheon hosts to the Amputees Association Convention. The programme will include special musical offerings by the Gyro and Kiwanis Orchestras, and an address by Dr. Alexander, the well-known psychologist.

Two Chinese gaming houses were raided by city police over the weekend. In one twenty-two Chinese were taken with dominoes and dice. In the other the police lost some of the inmates from the roofs of adjoining dwellings, but took six to the police station. All pleaded guilty before Magistrate Jay in City Police Court to-day to being inmates of gaming houses, and paid fines of $10 and costs each. Chief Fry and constables from headquarters station made the raids on Sunday evenings. The gaming paraphernalia was confiscated. Stuart Henderson and R. C. Lowe appeared for the accused.

Commencement exercises will be held in the assembly hall of the North Ward on Wednesday, September 19, at 2 p.m. Hon. J. Hincks, Minister of Education, has been invited to present the High School entrance certificates and the rolls of honor to the entering pupils of last school year. Representatives of the Women's Canadian Club will present a silver tea service to the senior class in honour of first place in basketball in the interschool sports. Singing by the pupils and brief addresses by visitors will complete the programme.

The Victoria Welsh Society held its monthly meeting at St. David's Hall, 1414 Douglas Street, on Friday with President Thomas in the chair. Mr. Diggin Williams, a local author on literature and arts, the evening programme was as follows: Welsh hymn; vocal solo, Miss May Lewis; piano forte selections; Miss Jessie Jones, A.L.C.M.; recitation, R. R. Wilson; vocal solo, T. Rhodes; vocal duet, Misses Haffrena and Eirwin Davies, accompanied by Miss Edith Lewis; piano forte solo, Miss Gladys Kinsey; vocal solo, J. M. Thomas. Announcement was made of the Welsh Society's plan to be held in November. A meeting was called for Wednesday evening when the ladies will organize the affair. Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. T. Williams and J. C. Williams, assisted by others.

DRIVERS UNINJURED

Mr. Portway was accompanied by six other members of his family and friends. Mr. Martin was alone in his car. Neither of the drivers was seriously hurt. The intersection has a sharp turn on the left side, and houses are built close to the property line.

The two cars locked together, and were dragged north on Robertson Street beyond the line of the intersection.

There the front spring of the Maxwell dislodged itself from the rear left wheel of the Portway car, and the latter was overturned, passing to its right side, and then rolling upon its top side.

CARS LOCKED TOGETHER

The collision took place when a Ford sedan, driven by G. A. Portway, going north on Robertson Street from the waterfront, collided with a Maxwell car driven by George L. Martin, of 844 Toronto Street, proceeding east on McLean Road toward Ogden Hill.

The two cars locked together, and were dragged north on Robertson Street beyond the line of the intersection.

There the front spring of the Maxwell dislodged itself from the rear left wheel of the Portway car, and the latter was overturned, passing to its right side, and then rolling upon its top side.

FATAL INJURIES

Mr. Portway was riding beside her husband on the right front seat of the sedan, and is believed to have sustained internal injuries when the car rolled over on that side, and finally onto its back. The door frame and windows on the left side of the car were splintered and the wooden frame broken.

Householders near the scene rushed to extricate the passengers from the overturned vehicle, and the police ambulance was soon on the scene.

Mrs. Portway was taken at once to the Jubilee Hospital, where she died there in a sinking condition, and later succumbed. The other ladies in the party were treated in nearby homes, while a private car conveyed those with more severe cuts to the hospital for medical dressing.

The authorities are awaiting the outcome of the inquest to-morrow, before expressing an opinion on the mishap. Both drivers reported to the police, and have been told to attend the inquest to-morrow.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Portway will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the McCall Funeral Parlors, with Rev. J. B. Roel officiating. Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Ground.

Besides her husband and three children, resident at 1074 Oliver Street, the late Mrs. Portway leaves her mother, Mrs. William Rowan, a sister, Miss Agnes Rowan, and a brother, Dr. Henry Rowan, all of London, England. STOCK MARKETS — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)
New York, Sept. 17.—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Bureau says today:

The seas with which Saturday's market absorbed the market news of Friday's closing selling movement and the distinct evidence that many of the soundest issues were being held in check until this week, combined with the definite prospects for a rather decidedly lower call money market point quite definitely to a big stock market week.

"The rail group is expected to be featured this week as the thought is finally sinking home that rail earnings this year are going to be far out of proportion to the selling level or most of the rail issues. The oil group should continue with the general market more or less dominated by strength of standard issues in each group. In each group it is noted that large numbers of the standard issues have thus far advanced but very moderately in proportion to the lesser known issues of their groups. I expect United States Steel to be the real leader when it comes 160, a development which is awaited with interest. New record in Westinghouse Electric and General Electric are expected.

"In the motor group I continue to favor General Motors and Packard, which is benefiting not only from a decidedly satisfactory motor year but is gaining rapidly in aviation. In the grain and among moderately priced issues I remain particularly optimistic.

"I am out of line with its indicated $8 earnings for the year and $11 next year. Missouri Pacific, which is equally out of line with its total expectations of better than $14, and Canadian Pacific, which has been decided to favor despite the fact that current indications point to a decline of earnings this year as a result of Canada's record crop. I expect additional advance in Electric Auto Light, inauguration of new move in Tunkin and Columbia G. and E. oil group I continue to favor Atlantic Refining.

Texas Corporation and Marland Oil.

Standard Tobacco is heading higher anticipating early announcement of closing of a contract with American Tobacco for approximately $7,000,000 of the company's products.

The establishment of a price of fifteen cents for copper will bring additional advance in this group, particularly to Anaconda.

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—Wheat: Despite tremendous deliveries of wheat in the country on Saturday, which totaled 7,028,844 bushels, as compared with 3,441,188 for the corresponding day last year, there was very little hedging pressure on the local market, and while the buying demand was quite limited it was sufficient to absorb the light offerings and hold the market steady at around the previous close. Opening prices were 1/4 to 1/2 higher, based on the early gains which were somewhat stronger than due, but this flurry was not held, prices mostly throughout the day being slightly under the previous close.

There was a little buying by the seaboard houses on the decline, but the volume was quite moderate, and exports were off the week, but were reported as quite small. There was a fair demand for all grades of cash wheat, but offerings of two Northern wheats were liberal, and the spread on this grade was off 1/4 cent, while others were unchanged.

Hail of the wheat being marketed by the farmers is going to the pool and half to elevator companies, but the latter report they are buying less than one-third of their receipts, the farmers holding the balance. This situation may continue for another month, or until the terminal elevators at the head of the lakes show signs of com-

B.C. POWER TO PAY FIRST DIVIDEND; STOCK TO BE LISTED

The ore body of the Oregon Copper at the 325-foot depth has now opened up for mining, with the shaft of the foot wall yet, and the ore running constant value, according to the message telegraphed to-day by President V. L. Arnold to Meharey, Roe and Company.

Vancouver, Sept. 17 (By Miller Court Teletype Wire)—Two additional big showings of ore were disclosed at the Topley Richfield property last week, according to services received from the manager there. There came in on new work, following the decision to start the ground on a wider area. In a parallel crosscut run from a point between the raise on the north drift and the crosscut between west and east veins of spodumene, it was found to further disclose the importance of ore bodies in that section. With the transfer of drilling from the north to the south zone underground work was similarly established, and in the drift south from the main shaft four feet of ore had been opened up. The work continues to expand, and an adit will be driven to the south, and a vertical shaft will be started.

Lucky Jim opened at 25 on sales of 1,000 shares, and climbed a point on the sales of an additional 7,000 shares. Grandview was up to 46%.

Whitewater was strong at $1.90.

Big Missouri was steady at 50.

The general tone of the market continues firm with higher price levels in-dicated generally.

In respect to those factors which have made power stocks market favorites for one or two or three years, British Columbia Power is particularly well favored.

The Pacific Coast cities which it serves are among the most rapidly growing communities in Canada. It is serving a large number of people at times the present population. Its potentialities for future growth are perhaps greater than many Eastern Power Companies all of which may be looked for as factors contributing to its immediate acceptance market-wise.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

(By R. F. Castle Leased Wire)

Toronto, Sept. 17 (By Miller Court Teletype Wire)—Bancroft, engineer at the Northern mine, near Stewart, reports that the tunnel has been completed with crosscut 10 feet apart and 10 feet of under-ground work. Drilling will be continued from the face of the long tunnel, and a short drift tunnel will be driven on the present level, one that was disclosed at the recent find at this property.

Noranda was moderately active and off at 10 at 51-515. Abitibi at 350-355 made a high fall, falling to 34, but was up 5. Granada was very active and closed off one at 29-29½.

Granham Besquet was again very heavily accumulated and gained 4 at 38 to 40. Siscoe, after selling from the opening of 75 up to 85, sold down to 76, closing at 70-80 for net gain of 1%. Timmins and Sudbury were weaker and off 4% to 6%.

After remaining firm practically throughout the session, Malarctic closed at 170-175, off 7.

Kirkland Lake was stronger, closing at 150-155.

The Huron lost 5 at 800-805 and Wright Hargraves lost 4 at 311-312.

Bigwood was very weak, closing at 60 for a net loss of 6.

Hollinger and McIntyre were unchanged. Domex was off 20 at 900-940. Sudbury Basin and Sheritt were inclined to be erratic. Sudbury closed 650 up 20, while Sheritt was off 25 at 650-660.

Pend Orellie was more active and up 50 at 150-155.

Development is proceeding at such a pace in the Portland Canal mining area that there has been a considerable shortage of labor during the last several weeks, according to mining men who are in Victoria to-day from Stewart.

There are notices posted up on the poles through Stewart that a certain big mining company wants carpenters, but in spite of the fact that men have been released through the B. S. Silver cutting down and the Seabake laying off most of its crews, there's still a scarcity of men to go into the hills to undertake the work offered there, said G. A. Campbell, electrical expert, who has arrived to spend a few days visiting his mother here.

H. A. Heywood also told of the shortage of good mining workers on his arrival here to meet J. H. Gillespie, president and other directors of the Terminus in regard to winter work at the mine.

John Bryden, M.E., has returned to spend the winter here. To-day he was discussing developments on various properties with mining men here.

"Yankees" really means "English."

When the first English settlers went to America the nearest the Indians could get to the name was "Yengees." That was twisted to "Yankees" and applied later to Americans.

Calcutta Luck

A Thrilling Story of Fate and the Famous Sweepstakes

By E. C. BULEY

"Then what do you propose to do?"

Glyde asked.

"Unquestionably, we have a good man in Nairobi. I shall cable to him at once, asking him to consult the files and advice me if it is a genuine paragraph from the local paper. If it proves to be genuine, I shall require further particulars of the details which it contains. There will be time to clear all those points before the Derby is run."

"And in the meantime..."

"In the meantime you and I will keep our own counsel, I suppose. I know little about betting, but I imagine the situation is not unlike that of the morning news of Franklin's death which would cause something of a stir."

"It certainly would cause a stir; a knockout for Parachute, and if the rumor proved to be false, we should be placed in an unfortunate position.

I can't imagine. What can you tell me about the owner of Parachute, by the way?"

"If the truth were known, he's probably a dummy," Glyde said. "He's a champ name. Masters, who is supposed to have bought Franklin's sweepstakes ticket, was at the arrival of the colt

Shaw was a chorus girl when Franklin married her a real gold digger."

"Parachute must have been very valuable?"

"He was a yearling at the time, and nothing very great was expected of him.

He cost Franklin something like a thousand guineas, a great bargain, as it had turned out to be. The supposed sale was arranged by Franklin's pal, a man named Norman Waring.

Parachute won the two thousand guineas

he was well backed at 100 to 8, and the money seems to have been won by Waring, who is the son of his, who calls himself Angus Gordon."

"It sounds as though rather a mysterious set of people were behind this

Derby favorite," Glyde said.

"All except the trainer," Glyde said. "Conrad is trained for Franklin, and he has kept Parachute in his stable ever since. He's a first-class man in every way. He regards Masters as his patron, and I'm told on good authority, he can be trusted to prevent any trouble, I mean—I mean that the ownership of the colt is registered in due form, and that he is raced honestly.

He's above suspicion of any kind."

"Then how do you account for—"

"You see," Glyde said, anticipating the question. Conrad found Franklin when he was not a bad boy in his own way. And he probably discovered before anybody else that he had a real good colt in Parachute.

Naturally, he kept the colt, knowing himself strong enough to prevent any trouble, I mean—What can be said about Masters. Parachute's runnings has always been beyond all caval."

"Very good; it is all very interesting to me. I'll draw up a cable to our Narobi man at once. In the meantime, of course, nothing is to be said about this."

Nevertheless, young Mr. Kennedy was next morning acquainted with the fact that tangible evidence of Franklin's death was being investigated by our London newspapermen.

The same cannot be said of Carol Win-stanley. Carol was not only bewildered and indignant; she was more than a little frightened at the brusque reception of her advances. She had made them, of course, without being informed of Joan's fortunate position in having drawn a horse in the Calcutta

swep-

to confidence.

GORDON PERSISTS

If John Blake was undisturbed by the ruffians he received on his behalf, the same cannot be said of Carol Winstanley. Carol was not only bewildered and indignant; she was more than a little frightened at the brusque reception of her advances. She had made them, of course, without being informed of Joan's fortunate position in having drawn a horse in the Calcutta sweep-

To do Carol what justice is possible, she had not at all relished the part allotted to her in the handling of Joan.

To do Carol what justice is possible, she had not at all relished the part allotted to her in the handling of Joan.

"I'm going to her now, with the sort of offer anybody might make an offer presents advantages to her, as well as to myself. And I hope, rather than expect, that she will not turn me down. Are you in with me, or am I playing a solo?"

"I suppose I might as well run in with you. Waring seems ungrateful. But you ought to click for less than £20,000; and I'll not go a penny above that figure."

"I'll see what Miss Kennett says,"

Gordon replied. "I expect, before I get anywhere much, I'll get a grip on your fighting friend Blake."

"Much good may it do you," growled

Waring.

And so Angus Gordon presented himself at the office of the firm of Ken-nnett, at the end of what had been an

"Oh, he's come about Parachute,"

Joan exclaimed weakly. "Linda, you must tell him I cannot possibly see him. Refer him to the Evening Budget; get; and say that I will understand affectionately that I have declined it.

It is my business to wait until it is certain that Parachute will start."

Linda returned from delivering the message, with a very uncertain smile upon her face, usually so grim and declined in its expression.

"I'm the only man who can prove that," Joan said, "but I suppose you want to see me."

"I have nothing to sell. Mr. Gordon, as you must have seen, has read The Evening Budget. And this is a very time with me, getting away the afternoon letters. I'm sorry if I appear brusque; but now that you have my answer from my own lips, I'm sure you will let me treat you the newspaper Johnny; and ask your own questions as well as supplying the answers."

"I thought you came about the offer

in the Calcutta sweep."

"Having read your decision in the newspaper, I saw that would be useless;

at least, for the present. I hope, though, that we shall be able to make an arrangement, in the course of the next day or two."

"And in the meantime? I am really very busy, Mr. Gordon."

"In the meantime, how can I get into touch with your friend of the Carlton

Hotel? Who is the man who calls him

John Blake?"

"But you will do nothing of the kind,"

Gordon added calmly. "Do I understand, then, that I am free to deal with Miss Kennett on my own head, exclusively, and in my own

"What are you after now?" Waring

"Take a pull at yourself," Gordon

First, you know, what you

Second, you know, what you ought to

"I suppose so," Waring admitted.

My knowledge of him, I confess,

Synopsis by Brewster.MARIONETTES

Do you know how to become a dwarf or marionet and give a puppet show? The living marionet shown on the stage above is easy to work out. There are really two boys in the picture, one boy's hands being the feet of the dwarf while the hands folded in front of the picture are those of another boy.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

This illustrates how the boys stand. A curtain is necessary between them, so the deception cannot be detected.

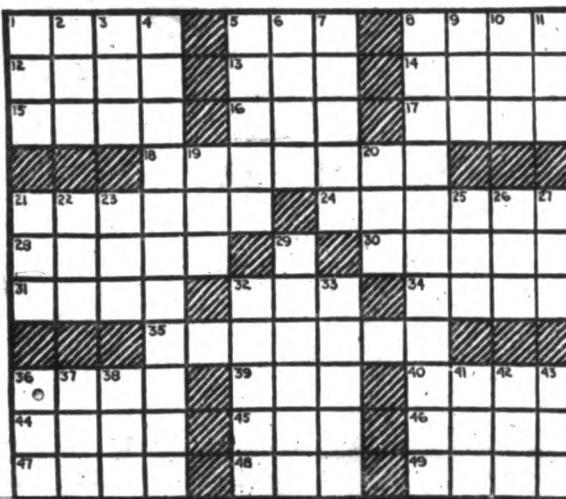

FRONT VIEW OF STAGE

This shows how you can make the stage for your marionets.

Fix up curtains about this little stage and assemble your audience. Then recite, sing, tell stories or dance. The boy concealed from view makes his hands twirl a cane or give comical gestures. The effect is quite unusual, and should interest your friends.

To-morrow's Horoscope

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1928

Astrologers read this as a lucky day in planetary government for beneficial aspects rule from early in the morning.

Under this sway it is well to push all one's business, for there is much to be gained from initiative. Lawyers should benefit from this position of the stars which will bring much litigation. Juries will come and women attorneys will attain honors.

Banks and bankers again benefit to-day if the stars are rightly read. Expansion of business and commercial interests is forecast.

Closer relations with South America will be possible to this country and will be generally beneficial to the sees metropolitan. Women should be lucky to-day, for men will be patient with their political and revenue demands while this configuration prevails.

This should be an auspicious wedding day, bringing prosperity and happiness. Money, as well as happiness may be expected, astrologers announce.

The evening may not be a propitious time for radio talks that carry out any sort of propaganda, for Uranus is in a forbidding aspect.

Those who travel through the air later to-day should be especially careful in choosing pilots, since accidents are supposed to be more likely than usual.

In the early Autumn new inventions of many sorts will be tested, and although many may be incomplete they will be preceded by many remarkable achievements. It is foretold.

Diehard will command attention, the see prophecy, but the modes will encourage a certain degree of flesh and women who have been willing to sacrifice face to form will mourn.

Persons whose birthday it is may expect successes if they work for it wisely in the coming year. They should be wary about tempting offers that compel change of vocation. Women should be especially careful. These subjects of Virgo rebound quickly from defeat or disaster, but they should not consider themselves beaten.

Children born on this day probably will have fine talents that lead to scholarship. Many persons born on this sign are musicians also claim it. Girls known to overcome handicaps is a characteristic.

SCHOOL BOOKS PROTEST HEARD

Hon. J. Hinchliffe Doubts If Government Can Make Distribution

Consideration to a request for the Department of Education to take action towards reduction of the cost of school text books was promised by Hon. J. Hinchliffe after hearing a Trade and Labor Council delegation Saturday afternoon.

The delegation, consisting of C. Chivers, J. Torrance, J. Casey, A. Hodges and W. Pynn suggested the cost could be reduced if the B.C. Government either printed the books themselves or bought them from the publishers and resold them to the scholars. Less frequent changes in school text books was also advocated. Complaints on the amount of homework some schools were called upon to do were also voted.

Mr. Hinchliffe, on the subject of text books, said he thought there should be less frequent changes. He did not see why new text books should be purchased merely for an edition. He believed the system of alternate text books which forced a scholar changing schools to get new books should be eliminated. With standardization of books and no alternative system a saving would be effected as books should then be good for a period of perhaps five years.

On a member of the delegation saying the Government might be able to overcome copyright obstacles and print the books, Mr. Hinchliffe was not prepared to commit himself, adding the Government purchasing the books and selling them was also not prepared to commit himself, pointing out the difficulties of interfering with the economical aspect of the retail business. The Government might be left with books on its hands by buying in opposition to retailers. Perhaps the plan could be carried out in one or two lines of books, he suggested. It was too late, however, to make suggested changes this term, he said.

On hearing objections to too much homework the minister said perhaps it might be as well to have some experienced teachers assigned the task of experimenting to see if half an hour's extra instruction for backward pupils would prove satisfactory.
